BRYAN, TEXAS, NOV. 6, 1909.

Well, the Democrats carried Breathitt county, Kentucky, anyhow.
This fuss about pellagra may be simply a nefarious scheme to bear the price of corn.
The mongrels who secured control of New York city's pie dispensary in Tuesday's election will do their best to starve Tammany tiger to death.
King Menelik of Abyssinia is dead and nobody in Bryan is wearing mourning. But this is not because anybody in Bryan had anything against King Menelik.
President Taft sidestepped the prohibition question in Alabama. Nor is it recorded that he committed himself on the Bailey question while he was in Texas.

According to the government crop reports, the rye product has been cut down 2,000,000 bushels. Local option did it by lessening the demand for Bourbon.
The time is coming when the Brazos county farmer will haul a thousand dollars worth of cotton to market at each trip with a two-mule wagon, but he will have a better road to drive over than he has now.
It is suspected by some that Rev. Frank Norris' opposition to Cone Johnson as the Prohibition candidate for governor had something to do with his resigning the editorship of the Texas Baptist Standard and going to Fort Worth to accept a pastorate.
The Trade Review and Industrial Record, in the department of Industrial and construction notes, publishes this item: "Management of A. and M. College and citizens of Bryan plan construction of electric line from Bryan to College Station. Mayor Maloney is interested and is pushing undertaking."
Fort Worth is ambitious to become the religious metropolis of Texas and in pursuance of this object raised a bonus of $150,000 to secure the Baptist Seminary. An effort to capture the Baptist Standard from Dallas failed, though the Fort, got the editor, Rev. Frank Norris. The Dallas Baptists, headed by Drs. Truett and Gambrell, came to the rescue and saved the Standard for Dallas.

to secure enough American farmers, who are fleeing from the rigor of the northern winters, to fill all the waste places and quadruple the products of Brazos county. This is the easiest and cheapest way to increase the business of Bryan. And the best of it is such increase would be permanent and would not require an everlasting fight to hold it.
Tom Watson, former populist leader and now editor of "The Jeffersonian," predicts an armed clash between the federal and the state courts. There are two ways to avoid it: One the complete submission and subservience of the state courts; the other is an awakening of the people of the United States to a realization of the danger of losing their liberties through the encroachment of the federal judiciary. If things go on as they are now moving it will not be long until the authority of the states will be completely destroyed.
We didn't know till we read it in the Star-Telegram that Fort Worth has opened a market for comets, but here is what that paper says: "It's a glorious race between Halley's comet and the battleship hog to determine which will hit the Fort Worth market first." Now if the Star-Telegram will quote prices and give some information about the best methods of planting and cultivating or breeding (whichever 't is) of comets, the farmers who are looking out for new lines of diversification will doubtless appreciate it.

"THE WOOLF."
The greatest play of the season Will be Presented at the Prince Theater, Houston Next Monday Night.
Eugene Walter's great play of the Canadian wilderness, "The Woolf," has appealed successfully to the critics wherever it has been produced. It is claimed that few bigger or stronger melodramas have ever been written. The play is a fine achievement in dramatic writing, construction and characterization. The settings of the first and third acts are works of art, fit for reproduction by a master painter in oil. An exceptional company headed by Andrew Robson will present the famous play at the Prince Theater in Houston on next Monday night. This is the date so many people are going down from Bryan and College for the big football game and as the train does not leave Houston until nearly midnight, they will have an opportunity to witness this great play. No doubt a large number of those who go down will take advantage of the opportunity.
THE REVIVAL.
Closing Week Day Service Last Night.
What will most likely be the last week-day service of the revival effort at the Methodist church was held last night. The congregation was small. The pastor's subject was, "The Witness of the Spirit." The text was taken from Romans 8:16, and the preacher declared that the text referred to two witnesses, each testifying to the same fact; that this interpretation was not only in entire harmony with other scriptural teachings, but accorded with reason, and with human experience, and was vastly and essentially different from a conclusion reached by cold processes of reasoning. He said the experience could be known to be of God by the experiences of conviction and repentance which preceded the testimony of the spirit, by the accompanying changes of the human spirit when pride gives way to humility and similar changes take place. The experience was declared to be for all, and necessary for all.
There will be no services today, but three services tomorrow—11 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The series of meetings will probably close with the night service.

Some scientists say that criminals are those intended by nature to be men and women of genius but the development of their brains was arrested by a premature ossification of the skull bones. Whether this be so or not, there is no doubt that arrested development, either in individuals or communities, always produces deplorable results. Expansion is the divine law and those who violate it must suffer the penalty. Keep Bryan growing if you want it to be a fit place for your children to live in.
Prominent railroad men say that the homeseekers' movement is beginning earlier and that it will be much larger this year than ever before. There are thousands of acres of fertile lands in Brazos county that are yielding nothing to the owners, yet there is no organized effort to induce any of these people to buy them and make them productive. It would not be difficult
